A SCARED CONTRABAND. A Barky's Experience Among Some Tankees Who "Had Horns,"

EDITOR NATIONAL TRIBUNE: In this communication I am not going to give any dates. News from the Various Divisions, for if I do some comrade will "rise to explain" that I am too previous by at least a day, or it was the day after, or that some other regiment did it. But this I will maintain, that it happened in the 8th Ohio, said regiment belonging to Carrell's Brigade, Shields's Division, Mc-Dowell's Army, which was on its way to reinforce McClellan before Richmond. We had reached a part of Virginia where no "Yanks" had penetrated, consequently there was great ement among the colored population. They had all been told the story that Yanks had horns. We went into camp after dark, so it was too late to investigate that night; but at sunrise they sent a committee of one to see what the Yanks were like, and report. We noticed him coming, edging his way up carefully, but as he couldn't see any horns, and no one molested

THE BLUE AND GRAY.

Robert E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, Visit Boston. Robert E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, left Richmond, Va., on the 15th inst. for Boston, Mass., to participate in the Bunker Hill celebration, held in that city on the 17th inst. There were 156 persons in the party, including 20 ladies. They were met at New York by Steinwehr Post, No. 192, G.A.R., who escorted them to the annex boat. The drum corps of Lee Camp played Yankee Doodle on the way over. They arrived in Boston on Thursday morning, June 16. They were met at Fall River by Post No. 15, whose guests they are, and upon their arrival in Boston a procession was formed, consisting of the 1st regiment (infantry), the National Lancers, Post 2, G.A.R., burglar finally drew a revolver and shot Ray- and Post 15, G.A.R. The banquet in the evening at Fancuil Hall was the culmination of the day's pleasures. The speeches and sentiments were a fitting commentary upon the fruitless efforts of any party or individual to disturb the cordial rela-tions now existing between the different sections of our land. At the table the seats were I so arranged that each comrade of Post No. 15 had on his right a member of Lee Camp-a happy blending of the blue and gray. The hall was elaborately decorated with flags and bunting, and in front of the platform upon which the guests sat were the State shields of Massachusetts and Virginia. Among the distinguished gentleman present were Gov. Ames; John Goode, of Virginia; George F. Hoar; Geo. D. Wise, of Virginia; Mai. N. B. Ran-delph, of Virginia, Capt. A. C. Bohannon, Henry Cabot Lodge, Rev. M. J. Savage, Louis Aldrich, the actor, and many others. After dinner Commander Daly rose, and calling the comrades to attention, made a short speech full of the sentiment of the occasion, He closed by introducing as the teastmaster and presiding officer of the evening Comrade Harrison J. The occasion was one of great enjoyment to both hosts and guests, and the fostivities lasted for several hours. The ladies were also banqueted at the Tremont House.

The next day the members of the Camp visited the suburbs of Boston, and left for Richmond, Va., at 6:30 in the evening. Many of them say that no words of theirs could express their feelings at the kind reception given them by the people of Boston. The whole town was theirs, they said, and every one they met seemed like a brother. They were much pleased with Cambridge, and many of them and piaces of bark from the old tree under which their beloved statesman, George Washincton, first took command of the Union forces. J. M. Rife, Secretary, West Jefferson, O.: At the Reunion of the Society of West Virginia Veter-Lloydsville, which was attended by nearly all ans, held at Portsmouth, O., last Fall, I was directed to issue certificates of membership to all who had paid the fee of 50 cents, and to other comrades who might wish to become members of the Society. I am now prepared to forward the certificates, and will do so at once to those who have paid the required fee. Veterans are invited to join the society by sending name, rank and regiment and the above fee to the Secretary as above indicated. The Reunion at Wheeling this Fall will, we hope, be largely attended by our members, where a report will organized a Guard, and have elected Bro. Jack. | be made of all funds received and how disposed
